"Japan had quit the League," said the Yomiuri, "and we will see the hostilities in two newspapers." Nichi Nichi. The Asahi said it was "absolutely prohibited and inadvisable" for Japan to accept Lytton's "worse than what was requested" and "filled with error."

The report is regarded as distorted and exaggerated by many commentators and started off a series of attacks in newspaper Asahi. It will be impossible to establish peace if the League adopts it, maintained Emperor's spokesman.

The body of one of the victims, Mrs. Louis Kadd, was found 10 miles from her home. Authorities said the force of the water may have carried other bodies greater

Killing By "Chicago's Prettiest Slayer" Bares Queer Romance Of Underworld

"Was Dirty Trick And I'm Sorry," Sighs Wife

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of six stories, detailing the life and loves of the Chicago slayer who has made history in the underworld since 1927. The first three were made timely by the three-car chase. Libby Holman-Smith Reynolds, 41, Walker tragedy in North Carolina.

THROUGH every stratum of society—from movie stars to gangsters, from millionaires to bootleggers—run the treacherous love-currents of three-car chase. Of them sweep some married men on the rocks of divorce, occasionally they find in a racy alienation-of-affections suit for a huge sum to heal a wounded heart, sometimes they terminate in grim tragedy with its resultant murder trial.

No layer of life—high or low—seems to be immune. In North Carolina, Mrs. Libby Holman Reynolds and "Al" Walker await trial on charges of murdering Smith Reynolds, late in the Reynolds tobacco millions. At the other end of the social scale, Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, called "Chicago's most beautiful slayer," waits trial for killing her husband—husband because of her alleged jealousy over the other woman.

The case of this 25-year-old self-made widow offers a good example of how love affairs can become just as tangled in the underworld as elsewhere.

Chicago police lean to the theory that the unworldly slayer, eager to rid of her middle-aged husband, Joseph Pollak, stockyards "ally" who had low love affairs can become just as tangled in the underworld as elsewhere.

1 SHOULD'N'T have shot poor Joe," she sighed contently, revealing the grim, white interior of the women's quarters with her persistent Did Chicago gangsters, prey on the primal instinct of jealousy, see Mrs. Dorothy Pollak, 25 (upper left), as the tool to bring about the killing of Joseph Pollak (right), wealthy bootleg king? Police believe they gauged her with stories of her husband's unfaithfulness. Mrs. Libby Holman-Smith Reynolds, of whom Mrs. Pollak was jealous, and a scene at Pollak's funeral which was attended by 10,000 persons, eager for a glimpse of the pretty slayer.

eyes. "It was a dirty trick, and I'm sorry. Of course, Joe beat me up all the time during the last year and a half. And he was jealous and moody. And he wouldn't take me out. And he had a violent temper. And all the time he was carrying on with that other woman. And she hated her recital to ask everybody had heard how she was one of the life bootleggers' 'ally' drivers and mother of two small children, had visited the mortuary chapel the morning of the funeral and requested the undertaker to raise the glass of the $1000 hammered silver casket so she could 'kiss Joe goodbye.' Not since a succession of accepted jurors exonerated such shooting scenes of British May Anson and Belva Gaerber and Cora May O'Brien of dissolute their race, hearts has Chicago bled such a combination of screen beauty and better advantage. As you watch her faintly dash away her tears, it is easy to understand why a crowd estimated at from 5000 to 10000 may be one richer by far than any heretofore.

BORN "Vicky" Myra in Poland, Mrs. Pollak was brought to this country by her parents when she was five. Her childhood home was in the railroad tracks in one of Chicago's poorest sections. While her father battled for health and her mother worked in a factory, she did what housekeeping was done and took care of her small brothers and baby sister. At 15 she graduated from grammar school and set out to realize her girlhood ambition.

"As far back as I can remember," she reminisced, "I wanted to be some part of the swell world outside my neighborhood. The world that lived without knowing that poor people like us existed."

With her feet and figure to help her, she got herself a job as cash girl in a downtown department store, and labored in a neighborhood "movie" theatre of evenings. Later she became a saleswoman and began to study beauty culture.

Somewhere along the brightly lighted road she traveled after leaving her parents' dirt road she encountered Joseph Pollak. He had been in the liquor business in the "left" until the passage of the Volstead Act. After that he entered the clothing business.

"To tell me he had plenty of money and was looking for someone to share it with," continued Dorothy, "he said I'd marry him, he would have a nice home and children. He was affectionate and kind. He took me to dances and shows. After their marriage in October, 1929, Dorothy says he changed."

"He stopped taking me places," she explained. "He was jealous of me, but after we were married he was worse. He was always beating me. He was under a $1000 peace bond to not touch me. I was afraid to go out alone. That's why I thought he was going to kill me some night. That's why I shot him."

The police's failure to find "that paring knife" seems not to have altered the sure-shot slayer's chances. The police are still of the opinion that she will never be found guilty.

He called for help and among the suggestions offered by Robert W. Coalition Proposals Not Likely to Receive Very Much Attention

VANCOUVER, Oct. 3.—The Liberal party, more or less quiescent since it went down to defeat before the Conservatives four years ago, will start in earnest today to get itself for the war which will precede the decisive battle of the next summer.

The coalition proposals, which will be presented by the British Columbia Liberal Association, spread this morning and continue for two days.

Coalition proposals, such as these made by Premier Tully, are not likely to receive much attention, it is expected.

Three hundred and fifty delegates are expected to attend the annual convention of the Liberal Association, which will be held at the Vancouver Convention Center, from Oct. 4 to 6.

DRAW UP MANIFESTO
The principal business of the meeting will be the drawing up of a manifesto. The provincial executive last night appointed a committee to draw up a manifesto.

The committee has grouped many of these in light of the new Resolutions Committee of the convention.

The resolutions passed will form the basis of the manifesto which will be issued.

VICTORIA, Oct. 3.—The executive on the British Columbia Conservative Association, which is holding its annual convention at the Victoria Hotel, today decided to hold an annual meeting of the association in Vancouver.

The question of a general convention of the party did not come up.

Premier Brownlee Pleads With Attitude on Debtor, Creditor Problem

made given by members of the Law Society of Alberta in offering their services on a fair basis in an effort to work out difficulties in connection with the debtor and creditor problem, was expressed on Monday by Premier J. E. Brown. When this scheme of assistance in the legal profession was most thoroughly organized, the government would be making a further announcement.

In the meantime he could say that the creditor firm appreciating the provincial-wide situation, as it existed and was willing to co-operate in working out the problem, had little to fear.

However, he would not be surprised if such a protest was made. Every action the government has taken with respect to the Debt Adjustment Act has met with protest, one quarter or another. Even this act, which many creditors acknowledge was working satisfactorily, notwithstanding any protest that could be said to the contrary, was constantly meeting with protest, where extreme hardship was did, however, wish to publicly acknowledge receiving a substantial unit of co-operation from many of the best companies who were invited in a large way in the welfare of the province. Unfortunately there were many who were not co-operating and the Government was faced with the problem of statutes dealing with such problems in the Dominion or province were not there because of the majority, but because of the minority.

Rally In Cosing Minutes Gives Calgary Altomahs Victory Over Eskimos

SINGLE POINT
BY BILL LEWIS

The hoary "old boys" will write into history today one of the great moments in the annals of the game. They will write of a New York Yankees team that surprised the world by its prowess and made a mark in the annals of the game. They will write of a team that never looked like winning a world series triumph in consecutive games. In fact, no team has ever looked like achieving that record of 12 straight wins in the fall classic of the diamond, which came in the years of 1927, 1928 and 1929.

And it is a record that will stand for a long time to be broken.

It will come as a great surprise to many who had figured Chicago Cubs to overcome the New York Yankees when they returned to the Windy City for the second time and were expected accordingly. They never looked like winning either at home or in Gotham.

For a change, I have the bare, laugh on the doleful, recalling the predicted last week that Chicago would be lucky to win one game of the series just down.

Second defeat on as many Saturdays came to Jimmy Esposito's game hand of Edmonton Eskimos. The Eskimos, however, were not so lucky, as they lost a 5-4 game to the Calgary Altomahs.

It is safe to say that no two teams in the history of the gridiron sport in Alberta have ever so well-matched as these two clubs.

They are even in every department of the game that any team may play could do away or the other without the victory going to the wrong team.

Plenty of hockey news in the air today, chief of which is the Canadian National Hockey League. E. L. Richardson has accepted the presidency of the newly-named Western Canada Hockey League.

Richardson headed the Western Canada League in its infancy days and there is no doubt but that he will be determined to see that the new circuit will be a successful season in its first year of operation.

Edmonton hockey fans too, will read with no little pleasure that Joe Simpson has been appointed president of the National Hockey League.

Incidentally, two Edmonton youths left to report to Chicago Blackhawks over the week-end.

Camrose United registers win

CAMROSE, Oct. 3.—The old times or ha-ben-a-Camrose, played the Camrose United team a friendly game in a game of dust and mud yesterday afternoon.

Camrose United, headed by their manager, Walter Campbell, played well, centering their play on the left side of the field.

They have a great goal tender in Sgt. Major Martin and Capt. Percy Smith, but through the last game they were forced to give in by a score of 2-0.

At the other end of the line, Billy Lowrey, kept the ball from being kicked in only twice, and made some remarkable saves.

The Camrose United team made some late goals in the second half, and won the game 2-0.

Seeks Grid Glory

Frank Wyckoff, star spinner of the University of Southern California, has gone in for another sport—football. With his terrific speed over 100 yards, and that the length of a football gridiron, Wyckoff may prove a brilliant, elusive ball runner. Here's Frank, left, discussing his chances with Orville Mohler.

Superb work of Gotham Ball Maulers Swamps Cubs Under 13-6 Score Before Awed Crowd of Chicago Fans

on Sunday

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

WRIGLEY FIELD, CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 3.—In a ripping, roaring climax that smashed world series records and shattered the last faint hopes of a fragrant New York Yankees crowd roughed Sunday to their third successive clean sweep in baseball's classic championship.

By the record-busting score of 13 to 6. The American League champions over-powered and routed the last vestiges of the defense of the Chicago Cubs. Five Bruin pitchers failed in the last attempt to stop this steam roller as the Yankees pounded out their fourth successive victory, thereby running their unprecedented winning streak to an even dozen.

WHEAT PRICES ARE UNCHANGED FROM SATURDAY

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 2.—Lack of support in outside markets and a little flurry in the opening minutes after that of Saturday. Prices at the close were unchanged for the day.

October closed at 41½ November at 36½ December at 31½ and May at 26½.

The fluctuation between the high and low prices was about 1½¢ and for long periods the quotations never changed. A little flurry in the opening minutes advanced values a fraction but when the dust cleared the prices gradually cleared and at times was almost deserted.

Export trade was not a factor and transactions were largely in the nature of spreading operations between the different months. Overseas advance continued little of interest. World shipments were well maintained at 13,000,000 bushels of which 8,000,000 bushels came from Canada and the United States.

Domestic wheat and coarse grain trade was light and spread generally was not wide.

STOCKS DRIFT LOWER AFTER QUIET TRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—The stock market found most commodities at week-end business today, and prices drifted quietly lower.

Used in moderate volume, although there was a little more activity than during Saturday.

A steady rally in the first hour soon petered out, and many issues down one to three points, although the day was checked by early afternoon.

Railways were notably heavy, but steel utilities and industrials also sagged.

Losses of about two to three points appeared in such issues as Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, New York Central, Norfolk and Western, Lakeview, Nickel Plate, American Cattle, United Aircraft and others.

Westinghouse, DuPont, American Gas, United Aircraft and others, while reactions of a few points appeared in many prominent issues.

Oils held fairly well, and General Electric kept close to its previous closing level.

The weekly report of the movement of overseas freight which appeared on Saturday showed an important gain only in the movement of coal and in aggregate gain which came only to about the normal expectations for the week.
